Pubudu : Yes, the hall was full. And what about the boy who came First he had a great voice.

Test-8

Underline the correct preposition.

Every evening after he returns home (to/ from/ at) work, my grandfather sits (in/at/beneath) the big banyan tree at the far end (of/from/for) our garden for about 30 minutes. He says it relaxes him a lot. I always sit (from/ to/ beside) him, and together we watch the birds flying (at/ to/ by) their nests. We also look at the clouds and play a game of guessing what their shapes look like. I really enjoy being there with my grandfather in the twilight (on/for/among) the sounds of crickets and rustling trees. I wouldn't miss it for the whole world.

Test-9

Abilities and Talents

- I. Fill in the blanks with suitable words.
- II. Write the parts of speech of each word
- III. Write sentences using these words.

Different people have different abilities and talents. For example, among us there are..... who are artistically inclined. They maya host of talents such as, dancing or painting - to name butfew. Then there are those who have a..... ability for technical activities such as working with electronic gadgets. Many of us are usually fortunateto find out early in life we are really good at and make a..... of it. However, as implied by the popular saying, 'You do not know what youdo till you try,' some people to discover their true potential. A..... , for example, may just sit somewhere..... a box of crayons beside him,he will never be able toout if he has the makings of artist until he starts working with crayons. What really lies beneath someone's success in any field is dedication and hard work. James Watt or the Wright brothers, for example, did not make their inventions overnight. They were driven by true interest in what they were trying to achieve. So, we should all aim at deriving the maximum benefit and satisfaction from our abilities and talents.
